Coaching Practices for School Leaders is a virtual course that provides training for those who want to be, or employ the skills of, professional coaches for school leaders who support education at all levels. Participants actively engage in sessions for large/small group learning, coaching practicum, and individual coaching immersion. Topics include developing the coaching presence, asking questions that probe with curiosity and encourage reflection, developing experiments with new learning, and implementing strategies and tools with coaching clients.

The cost for the 15-week course (February 12 – May 20, 2020) is $600. The book Evoking Greatness: Coaching to Bring Out the Best in Educational Leaders (Megan & Bob Tschannen-Moran, 2018, Corwin) is required for the course. The course is organized for 90 recertification points for educators and 60 training hours for those using the Portfolio Path for ICF certification.
